ABSTRACT

The Pancasila Student Profile Program will run effectively if it gets support from various parties, especially educational institutions that have direct relationships with students throughout Indonesia. Educational institutions play an important role in returning the Indonesian nation to a civilized nation, especially during the Covid-19 pandemic. Schools should assist in helping the government strengthen the six attitudes to become a student profile of Pancasila. This study aims to develop one of the media to support the program to strengthen character education in schools, namely developing a digital-based Pop Up Book media to strengthen the profile of Pancasila students in high schools in Yogyakarta.

This research is a development research (R&D) with qualitative and quantitative approaches. The subjects of this study were 8th grade students of SMP in the Special Region of Yogyakarta. Data collection techniques used in this study are interview techniques, questionnaires, and tests. The data that has been collected is checked by using source triangulation examination technique. The data was then analyzed descriptively by determining the criteria for the level of validity and product revision on a Likert scale. Hypothesis testing using t-test or t-test. This t-test aims to find and measure the effectiveness of digital-based Pop Up Book media in an effort to strengthen the profile of Pancasila students in junior high schools in Yogyakarta.

The targeted results in this study are digital-based Pop Up Book Media which are expected to help students understand and prepare themselves for the six main characters of Pancasila student profiles in everyday life. From this research, it is hoped that there will be outputs in the form of scientific articles that can be obtained in Sinta indexed scientific journals, and if possible in international journals.
